Ruth Scorns Us-But-Portia Really Loves Us!

Too Cold for Outdoor Dancing Says Ruth Saint Denis---Finest Climate in the World Says Portia Swett.

SOME time ago there appeared in a San Francisco daily a report of an interview with Ruth St. Denis, in which she asserted that her reason in giving up the school which she had planned for Carmel was the coolness of the climate. This sounds strange when you consider that the mean annual temperature of this part of the country runs at about 60 to 65 degrees. One would think that a school designed to feature any form of athletics would be more apt to flourish in a climate not subjected to the extremes of temperature, but that's of course as Miss St. Denis thinks. We are inclined, however, to wonder what the real reason is.

Almost on top of this comes the announcement of the opening of the new term for the Portia Mansfield Swett School of Dancing and Its Related Arts. The young women who conduct this school are scared out by a bit of pure Pacific Ocean fog, for this is their third season in Carmel.

The main school is at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, but they choose Carmel for their winter session.

The new term began last Monday in the Cooke residence on Carmelo avenue, at the south section of town and the following young ladies have already registered as boarding pupils:

Aubrey Van Liew, Chicago; Mary McIntosh, Sydney, Neb.; Margaret Day, Canton, Ohio; Marjorie Barstow, Lincoln, Neb.; Beatrice Johnson and Katherine Peters, Omaha; Hortense Trimble and Virginia Whitehead, Denver; Marian and Alice Seng, Chicago; Muriel Eastman, Kansas City, Mo.; Genevieve McAdam and Malita Hake, San Francisco.

Ralph Wylie of Los Angeles has entered as a day pupil for the term. Other day pupils are Christine and Virginia Burton, Ruth Cator, Grace Wickham.

The Portia Mansfield Dancers are now booked as headliners on the Orpheum Circuit for a year. They will travel from coast to coast and will be in San Francisco and Los Angeles next September, at which time they will be replaced by four others from the school. Three of the girls now playing in New York are

PINE CONE'S BOND ISSUE SUGGESTION MEETS APPROVAL

TO JUDGE from the expressions of approval received by the Pine Cone from the residents of Carmel, it is apparent that there is no opposition to the proposal to issue city bonds to build a city hall and to purchase fire-fighting apparatus sufficient to provide proper protection. The chorus of approval follows:

Argyll Campbell: I am for the proposed bond issue to construct a city hall and purchase fire fighting apparatus because Carmel-by-the-Sea needs both, and needs them badly.

That Carmel has escaped a disastrous fire thus far is due solely to almost miraculous good luck, and it would be fatuous to depend any longer on chance when adequate fire fighting apparatus may be had for the cost of one small bungalow. Such apparatus would pay for itself many times over in a short space of time, and it would seem like good business and good sense to purchase the necessary apparatus before a bad fire occurs rather than afterward.

So far as the city hall is concerned, the present one is merely a temporary expedient, and is inadequate for the requirements of the city government. The rent now being paid is, in a sense, a total loss. Why not use this rent toward helping pay for a city hall which will be our very own?

A bond issue of about $10,000 would make both improvements possible. I'm for such an issue.

C. O. Gould: A bond issue at this time to cover the expense of additional fire apparatus and a new city hall would be most advisable. Too much fire protection is an impossibility in view of our peculiar local conditions, while a city hall would be a permanent thing for the future.

John B. Jordan: It's a known fact fire protection is one of the most important requisites of a community, and Carmel is a living example. All of our homes are situated so that they need it more than most places, by reason of the immense amount of shrubbery and trees. A fire would be most disastrous. We need a city hall. A bond issue is the only plan.

Robt. G. Leidig: I heartily agree with the Pine Cone's suggestion for a $10,000 bond election to provide for a new city hall and a fire engine.

The cash now paid out for rent for inadequate quarters would more than pay the interest on the bonds and I am certain that better fire fighting equipment is badly needed.

T. L. Edler: I do not hesitate to indorse the provision for a bond issue to provide for a city hall and adequate fire protection, for it is one of our first necessities. We are not a lot of pigeons to roost just where we happen to find a tree and we cannot forever be fighting fires with garden hose, tin pails and wet sacks.

I think every one interested in the welfare of Carmel should get behind this issue and give it a push.

L. S. Slevin: Noting the article in your last issue relative to providing a city hall owned by the city and adequate fire-fighting apparatus—that the city hall would be desirable and an economy in the long run. The fire-fighting apparatus is imperative.

Grant Wallace: A growing community, such as Carmel is, will frequently be called upon to provide and maintain various new public utilities. Just now it seems that the most pressing needs are enough fire-fighting equipment and a structure in which our public business be properly and comfortably transacted.

I heartily indorse the bond issue for both propositions as suggested in last week's Pine Cone.

Delos Curtis: I am decidedly in favor of any improvement which will give additional fire protection to Carmel and which will house our city's activities in a place of our own. Why pay rent?

Hobart P. Glassell: I heartily indorse any proposal influencing municipal progress; I consider adequate fire protection and a new city hall necessities and essential to our civic growth.

John C. Mikel: I am against this rent paying business. Let's put up a city hall of our own on our own property. We must protect ourselves properly against fire. Sure, I'm in favor of the bond issue.

J. Davis: I am very much in favor of a good fire department, that will protect property and life. I favor also a city hall and postoffice the same as exists in any thriving community such as Carmel. I approve of a bond issue to cover the above expense.

Owing to lack of time and space many expressions of opinion have been omitted. We will be glad to print them in next week's issue.

Carmel Club Of Arts and Crafts Will Give Drama

Strong Organization is Being Perfected for Production of Plays by Local Talent in Little Theater.

It will be produced by a Carmel resident who has not heretofore been suspected of having drama-coaching ability. The strong cast selected for the various roles will be an eye-opener.

from Carmel—Willette Brown, Jeanne Fuller, Frances Hartscock.

Miss Mansfield and Miss Perry are extremely capable young women, the former directing the dancing activities of the pupils and the latter being in charge of the art courses. Miss Swett's method differs from that of other schools of dancing in that she combines the thorough technique of the modern Russian ballet with her plastic Greek and interpretative work. She is widely known for the unusual quality of her original dance compositions.

She has studied professionally with the best masters and artists in this country and in Europe in order to evolve just this system, a combination greatly needed in this age of specialization. Thus she is able to present the most essential technique and character work from such recognized artists as Pavley and Oukrainsky of Chicago; Tarasoff, Adolph Bohm, Albertieri of New York, and many others.

Miss Perry is a member of Artists' Guild, Chicago, and a normal pupil of the Art Institute, Church Normal School of Art, Chicago, and of the New York Academy of Design. She has studied Japanese tie-dyeing, advanced batik work and the chemistry of dyeing with Prof. Charles Fellow of Columbia College, New York.

The aim of the school is three-fold: First, to bring into the technical study of dancing a knowledge and appreciation of the arts, their relation to each other and to life. Second, to stimulate the creative instinct which is in each individual; and to send her home radiant with health and exuberant vitality. Third, to teach, through exercise and relaxation, a control of the body and mind which through life will prove of direct benefit in times of intense mental or nervous strain.

Each Monday evening, profiting by the example of the actors and playwrights of Carmel, the pupils give impromptu plays. The plots are explained to the actors, the lines are improvised. During the past season this has been done with the greatest success. And the method has been found wonderfully stimulating to ability in repartee and pantomime.

Harry A. James to Wed
Los Angeles Girl Soon

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Harry A. James, a former Carmel resident, and Miss Alice Frank of Los Angeles. Their marriage is to take place soon, and they expect to spend the greater part of the summer in Carmel.

At present Mr. James has a position with Church Films, Inc. This is a new concern, being put forth by the church people, the purpose being to elevate the motion picture industry, and to make films such as may be practical for church work.

Preparations Made to Entertain Women's Clubs

The arrangements for the meeting of the County Federation of Women's Clubs are progressing.

Miss M. De Neale Morgan reports that the Federation will supply the speaker of the day and the local club the afternoon's entertainment. Thos Vincent Cator has charge of the music.

The meeting is to take place on Saturday, February 18th, and is to be an event of importance to Carmel.

Those having automobiles may entertain any of the visitors by drives to local points of interest, and auto owners should send their names to Miss Morgan.

Productive Guam.

Incident to his 1920 census, Uncle Sam has found that our island possession, Guam, produces from its 225 square miles, with its population of 18,275 native, 1,140,924 pounds of copra for export to the United States and 851,680 pounds to Japan.

The live stock on the island includes 6,149 water buffalo, 4,357 horses, 1,160 goats, 543 hogs and 73 cattle. Corn, sweet potatoes, taro, yams, tobacco, cassava, rice, arrowroot and sugar, are included among the field crops. Coconuts, bananas, pineapples, papaya, cacao, limes, mangoes, grapefruit and even alligator pears constitute the food-producing trees and plants.

Whereas, there are 106.2 males to 100 females in the United States, there are 95.7 males to 100 females in Guam. Some 41.7 per cent of the men are single.

The climate is said to be tropical, but healthful and pleasant, remarks the Portland Journal. The island of Guam is almost a neighbor, being only about 5,800 miles from our coast.

A Love Tip.

A Glendale young man, whenever out of the city, instead of writing to his best girl, sends her every few days a box of candy. "She is delighted with his plan and boasts of it to her girl friends, who straightway hint to their admirers to do the same."

One of the admirers went to the first-named young man on his return from one of these trips and made complaint of this habit of his. "The other girls are expecting us fellows to do it, too," he said. "We can't see why you do it. It's expensive and—"

"Yes," admitted the candy sender, "it is expensive, but it's mighty safe. Candy could never tell tales in a breach of promise suit."—Los Angeles Times.

Water as a Diuretic.

A powerful diuretic is water—its action in this respect, drank by a healthy man, being very marked, and it appears impossible to explain its limitation by a mere increase in blood pressure, whether local or general; it has the power of increasing tissue change, and thus multiplying the products as fast as they are formed—and thus, by giving rise to increased appetite, provides fresh nutriment for the tissues, and acts as a true tonic. In persons who are accustomed to take too little water the products of tissue waste may be formed faster than they are removed, and, thus accumulating, may give rise to disease. Many gouty people are accustomed to take too little water, except in the form of a small cup of tea or coffee daily; a large tumbler of water drunk every morning, and especially with the addition of some nitrate or carbonate of potassium, will prevent a gouty paroxysm.

HINTS ON HEALTH

"Hints on Eating" is the title of an interesting little pamphlet being issued to Southern Pacific employees by Dr. G. R. Carson, of the Company's Hospital Department, at the general offices in San Francisco.

The leaflet which contains many pointed but, practical suggestions reads as follows:

No one can have health who eats too much.

No one can have health who eats too often.

No one can have health who eats when tired, hurried, worried, anxious or excited.

No one can have health who rises late, gulps down a hearty breakfast, swallows a sandwich and a glass of milk for lunch, and tops off the whole performance with a late dinner.

When you have eaten, do not wonder if the food will agree with you.

When you begin to wonder, trouble begins.

If you fear it, do not eat it.

If you eat it, do not fear it.

Be cheerful at your meals.

A sour countenance will give you a sour stomach.

Popularity a Questionable Asset

"Will Knut Hamsun be popular?" asks a writer in Library Service, the magazine of the Detroit Public Library.

Hamsun's publishers, Alfred A. Knopf, answer the query by reference to the sales of Hamsun's published works. Of the five novels by Hamsun published by Mr. Knopf, "Growth of the Soil" has sold 18,000 copies, and "Hunger" only a few less. "Growth of the Soil" has been sent to press seven times, "Hunger" eight, "Shallow Soil" twice, "Pan" three, and Hamsun's newest book, "Dreamers" has just been published and is being sent to press again at once for reprinting. The above figures are considered remarkably large for foreign translations, and would be considered successes of the first class even for native fiction.

Uncle Tom Resurrected

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been revived on Broadway, where it has not been shown for about fifteen years, though it has been barn-storming almost every season. It seems there is a dearth of modern worth-while plays, and there are hundreds of thousands of people who have never seen "Uncle Tom", an entire new generation having come onto life's stage during these last fifteen years.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XIII.—RHODE ISLAND

RHODE ISLAND is not really the name of this state. As can be seen from the state seal, the official name is the "State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations." It originated from two distinct settlements. The first was made by Roger Williams in 1636. He was the pastor of a church in Salem. As he advocated radical reforms he was ordered to return to England, but fled to the Narragansett tribe of Indians. From them he obtained a tract of land and called the town which he established Providence, in token of God's mercy, which had so far provided for him.

About the same time Mrs. Anne Hutchinson and her followers were expelled from Massachusetts on account of a theological dispute. She made her way to the island of Aquidneck, which she purchased from the Indians for 40 fathoms of white wampum, 20 hoes and 10 coats. The name of this island was changed to the Isle of Rhodes, probably after the famous Greek island in the Mediterranean. By common usage it became known as Rhode Island. In 1662 Charles II gave Rhode Island a very liberal charter, and this remained in force until 1841, when a new state constitution was adopted by mass conventions, and two years later another new constitution was legally voted. The change in constitutions caused what was known as Dorr's rebellion.

The entrance of Rhode Island into the Union in 1790 completed the list of the original thirteen states. Though Rhode Island is the smallest of all the states, with only 1,248 square miles, it is very thickly populated and has five presidential electors, which is more than those of a number of states of much larger territory.

Vagrant Impressions of the Pine Nut

When Our Own
Tom Played the Legs of the Elephant

LAST WEEK my language wasn't such as a "true loidy" should use, and it's hurt my conscience ever since—but then it really wasn't mine. It was Bill Kibbler's. I just told you what he said to me and if I could stand it, unblushingly, I guess you can.

Speaking of bad language—did you ever hear of the fifty-seven varieties of profanity that Tom Reardon put on the market that time he started (and finished) his dramatic career? It was a heroic start and a climactic finish.

Here's how it happened: Way back in—I disremember just what year it was, but anyway Tom was old enough to know better—about 1914, wasn't it, when Perry Newberry put on "Aladdin"—not the light opera that he and Mr. Cator are writing now, but the adaptation of the Arabian Nights story? Well, one of the most important roles in the play was that of the elephant. It might be said to be one of the heavy parts. Everyone knows how skillful Mr. Newberry is in all branches of stage technique. If you don't think that it takes a knowledge of stage technique to make a perfectly good convincing elephant, you just try it. However, Perry got a man to play the front legs and a man to play the hind legs and then he gave them a heavy platform to carry on their heads, and then threw over the whole thing a painted, canvased elephant skin. Wasn't that ingenious? I'll say it was. On top of the elephant was a throne with a canopy over it. On the night of the performance everyone in the cast was thrown into a panic at the startling news that the front legs of the elephant were missing. Now, you must understand that the advancement of the plot depended on the maneuvering of that elephant. He was vitally necessary to the dramatic values. The play just couldn't proceed until that elephant could frisk and gambol properly and it was very evident that a full complement of legs are always a prerequisite to any form of friskiness—be it human or elephantine.

Friendship is a wonderful thing. You never appreciate a true friend until he helps you out of a hole. Not for nothing had Perry Newberry had Tom Reardon fix his kitchen sink. Tom might even be said to have "plumbed" his way deep into Perry's affections. Be that as it may, Perry had some sort of a pull with Tom as was evidenced when he sent out to Tom, who was seated in the audience with a comfortable feeling that he was going to enjoy the show, a hurried request that he would play the front legs of the elephant for him.

Now, Tom was a good honest plumber—and that's saying a good deal these days—he could do justice to bathtubs and bills; he could play the polished footman, the roughneck robber, the dying old silvery-haired grandfather; he could have even tackled "Little Eva" uncomplainingly—but to be asked to cover up his brand new suit of clothes with a painted old elephant hide and to get into a pair of elephant legs—this was a depth of ignominy that poor Tom had never experienced before—but he rose to the occasion. He went behind stage. Perry grasped his hand. His blue eyes filled and his voice trembled with emotion as he said: "Old man! Old man!" Words failed him. He mutely pointed to the waiting back legs, and the play Aladdined on.

Yes, I know that I'm a long time coming to the point of my story, but all this is necessary to explain Tom's state of mind. I think it was when he donned the leg coverings that he launched his first variety of choice epithets upon a preoccupied and unlistening crowd. Those legs were just painted that afternoon, and the paint wasn't yet dry, and as I said before, Tom had on his best suit.

The next straw to break the elephant's back was a one hundred and fifty pound princeling (some straw!) seated on the throne that was borne up by the much-enduring front legs. Kenneth Gould was Slave of the Lamp or Lackey to the Prince or Keeper of the animals or something. Anyway it was his duty to see that the elephant was guided on and off the stage safely. You see, the front legs had had no rehearsal, the heavy canvas covering was anything but transparent and our good friend Tom was helpless as a newborn babe to find his way about. When the grand triumphal procession left the stage amid the plaudits of the mob and the audience, Kenneth and his elephant got separated. Kenneth got off the stage in real human fashion, but the elephant got its front legs tangled up with the trunk of a tree and there it was, reeling and helpless. Even the back legs had escaped and Tom was left to bear his weight of sorrow and throne and princeling alone. It was a cold cruel world. He stood cheerfully the freshly painted legs, the ignominy of bearing the throne's weight, also the throne's, and of being made into a piece of scenery, but to be deserted and forgotten in his hour of trial—it was much too much.

'Twas then that the air turned blue on that part of the stage. Low rumblings of profanity were heard. The Princeling's throne trembled under the shock of the attack. The rumblings grew louder and louder, and it began to sound to Perry Newberry in the wings like the trumpeting of an elephant. He looked around and found Kenneth Gould.

"Where is that elephant?" he demanded of Kenneth sternly.

"Somewhere on stage. I lost him on the way out," Kenneth answered meekly.

And now it was that the spirit of friendship rose to its sublimest heights.

"Go back and get that elephant," said Perry, "before he starts all over in another language."

Perry thinks that Tom endured his stage wait just about a minute, but Tom swears that he was lost astride that tree for a solid half hour.

As I said before, friendship is a wonderful thing. It's a wonder that that incident didn't produce a coolness between Perry and Tom, but it didn't. Their friendship has lasted through all these years, even through the Ocean Avenue fight. Tom has a new suit of clothes by this time—I'm not sure that he didn't tack the price of them on to some of Perry's plumbing jobs, and I wouldn't really blame him if he did—and the incident has dropped into the limbo of the forgotten Past. Ah me! 'Tis just as well that some things should be forgotten, but don't ever ask any one of the Aladdin crowd whether Tom Reardon can swear, 'cause I'm telling you that he can, could,—and did.

This is only one of the many funny things that happened in them old Forest Theater days. Sophie Treadwell was playing the Queen in "The Toad". Nobody would ever have suspected Sophie of getting rattled or going to pieces at the last moment. She fairly radiated coolness and self-possession, and knew her lines backward as well as forward. After the play had started a hurried summons came to the producer to attend the Queen immediately. He found her white-lipped and trembling,—on the verge of tears.

"Oh, what am I going to do? I've forgotten my opening cue. I don't know anything about how or when I'm to get on to the stage." Her haughtiness was now sobbing. This was bad,—desperately bad, on makeup. The producer tried finesse.

"You just listen—you'll recognize your cue all right when you hear it."

"Oh, but I won't! I tell you my mind's a perfect blank."

Just then the trumpets blared, the mob on the stage fell apart in two low-courtesying lines and the Herald proclaimed in loud stentorian tones:

"HERE COMES THE QUEEN!"

Sophie straightened up, hastily dabbed on a fresh supply of rouge, and clanked majestically on the stage.

What a happy family Carmel was way back eight or ten years ago—in the days before we bragged about the Forest Theater being a "financial success". When it came time each year for the annual play, everybody fought and quarreled first, then turned in and worked to make the play a success. Everyone in town did something. The real estate wore a suit of armor, the editor of the Pine Cone went clad like a Nubian slave. The carpenters made the scenery, the dressmakers made the costumes. The busy groceryman played the skulking Indian, the housewife brought the kiddies and they all dressed up in some picturesque costume and helped to form part of the background. The visiting writer or artist or sculptor was persuaded to carry a spear or to assassinate the King. I'm telling you that it was one great big happy family, and that's why we all got so much fun out of it.

Lately, it's become different. The Forest Theater is with us, but it isn't US. It's apart from us not a part of us. I hope that by the time Perry Newberry and Tom Cator and Garnet Holme and some others have beaten and whipped us into shape this summer, we will have gotten something of the old community spirit, and that it may be the entering wedge of a Carmel, larger in individuality, larger in vision, larger in accomplishment than ever.

What Others Think

"WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE, WITH CHARITY FOR ALL . . ."

The Pine Cone solicits articles or communications on constructive public improvement. We desire to give the fullest publicity to both sides of any controversy that may arise. We feel that the people of Carmel can and will discuss fairly and openly, without rancor or bitterness, matters pertaining to the collective life of Carmel. In order to promote a friendly constructive effort, we ask that all contributions be signed. Communications sent anonymously or signed with a fictitious name will not be published.

Carmel, Calif., Jan. 30, 1922
Editor of the Pine Cone.

In your last issue of the Pine Cone you invited the expression of views in connection with the municipal building problems. I should like to go on record as one who approves of planning sufficiently in advance to assure a civic center that shall be a unit both in grouping and design.

The community of Carmel is comprised of individuals who have braved obstacles of discomfort, who have bought lots and built houses in the protests of impossible roads and other inconveniences not in accord with the demands of comfortable modern living. By this they have shown response to some appeal of a higher order in coming to this place.

Many have expressed themselves in building houses and plotting gardens both unusual and charming. This same care and art might easily be incorporated into our civic life. Now, while the business houses are in a state of change and the present need of municipal buildings is apparent, is the time to do the planning.

There is no reason why the expression in the town in general should not display as great evidence of a high order of individuality as the literature and art that go forth from our midst.

A writer in a recent magazine article expressed his joy and surprise at coming upon a little village in the tropics. He says of it: "Here, clustered in a little valley surrounding an incomparable little beach, was a century-old, tile-roofed town, with every line in it harmonious."

With every line in it harmonious!

What an ideal toward which to work!

We are superlatively endowed with the assets of natural beauty. If we take this into account while we are planning, and plan in accord, we shall not fail of simplicity and grace in our municipal buildings.

Very truly yours,

Helen Parkes

Notice to Property Owners

Who are contemplating painting their roofs—will be wise if they use the Kelly Iron-Clad Roof and Metal Paint. This paint is composed of oxide of iron, U. S. Navy pine pitch, asphalt, coal tar, and a substance which is entirely a new discovery by me, it never having been used in trade before outside of this paint. It will not blister, scale or crack, for it dries by chemical action. It forms a coating which is positively water and weather proof. It does the work of both cement and paint in one application. It penetrates through the old paint, filling all pores, making a solid and durable surface, lasting five or six years. The work will speak for itself. A word to the wise. For further particulars and information please call at Carmel-by-the-Sea Drug Store. F. B. KELLY.

When you go away, have the Pine Cone sent to you. You'll enjoy it.

Grandma Duriee, California Pioneer, Dies at Yolanda

Pauline Senff Duriee, a pioneer of 1852, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary L. Huntington, in Yolanda, Marin County, January 24.

Mrs. Duriee was born in Trechtern, near Weisenfels, Saxony, Germany, May 14, 1825. She accompanied two brothers to Philadelphia in 1818, where she married William Shellbach. In 1853, with a young son, she sailed for California, arriving in San Francisco after a voyage of seven and a half months. In 1854, after her first husband died, she married William F. Duriee. After Mr. Duriee's death in 1859 she engaged in the millinery business in San Francisco and in 1866 moved to Lakeville, Sonoma county, which place she made her home for nearly thirty-five years; when she moved to San Francisco. She first came to Carmel in 1907, and has lived here at intervals until two years ago, when she took up permanent residence with her daughter at Yolanda.

She was a benevolent woman, a kind and indulgent mother and generous to a fault. Besides a son and daughter she leaves five grand-children and seven great-grandchildren. She was aged 96 years, 8 months and 10 days.

TRUCKEE NOW MECCA FOR OUTING PARTIES

TRUCKEE, Cal., Jan. 24.—This pioneer California town, situated in a pass near the top of the high Sierra, has become a famous resort for California residents seeking the thrill of winter sports, little known to most sections of the state.

Every week-end the mountain-sides hereabouts are dotted with skiers and toboggan parties and the streets, upon which front many old-time buildings hinting of "wild and woolly" days gone by, are colorful with the gay sports attire of hundreds of visitors.

The big California motion picture companies are taking advantage of the heavy snows and the rugged character of the region to film stories, the scenes of which are laid in the Canadian Northwest or Alaska.

Truckee is near Lake Tahoe and but a dozen miles from the historic Donner Lake, named for the party of argonauts which met a tragic death while attempting to cross the Sierra Nevada mountains into California.

POLO TOURNAMENT AT DEL MONTE

An invitational Polo Tournament to be held at Del Monte, January 28th to February 5th, marks the formal opening of the California season for this popular sport. Matches are scheduled every other day on the two Del Monte fields. Eastern, Army and California clubs have entered teams, and trophies will be awarded to winners of the Senior, Junior and Novice Divisions.

GOLD MEDAL FOR S. P. ENGINEMEN

As a further incentive for engineers and firemen to save fuel oil the Southern Pacific Company is to award a gold badge to the engineer and fireman standing highest in point of operating their locomotives with the greatest efficiency in the use of fuel oil.

In the event an engine man wins the award a second time a red enamel star will be inserted in the badge. The name of the winner, with the date of the award, is to be inscribed on the back of the badge. The award is to be made on three months period fuel performances recorded from October 1, 1921.

The badge is to be worn on the cap.

A Word to Property Owners

Why get "faked" every year by having your roof painted with gas tar or a fish oil paint? There is positively no protection in that kind of roof paint. Prices alone prove nothing in roof protection. Quality and price must be considered together to determine money value. F. B. Kelly's Ironclad Roof and Metal Paint is not gas tar, or a fish oil or any other kind of a "fake" paint. Ironclad will give you your money value in roof protection for 5 to 6 years. A word to the wise. F. B. KELLY, Box 35, Carmel, California.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Mark Twain's publishers, Harper & Brothers, describe the manner in which they discovered the origin of the name "Tom Sawyer." In 1902, they brought out a group of volumes which they called "Mark Twain's Best Books," and which were sold all over the country. One day, not long after, a Californian rushed into Harper's, very much excited because "Tom Sawyer" had not been included in the set. It developed that his name was Tom Sawyer, and that in Mark Twain's early days as a newspaper reporter, the Sawyer café on the Barbary Coast was a rendezvous for young fellows. According to Mr. Sawyer, Mark Twain seldom had money with which to pay for his meals, and his score of debts was marked upon a blackboard. In spite of the fact that the debts were never erased, the young Twain was always welcome because of his inexhaustible fund of jokes and stories. Later he named his famous character after the proprietor.

E. Phillips Oppenheim, the English author, equally popular on both sides of the Atlantic, reels off novels as readily as he writes his name. Past master of the art of telling a story, he has humor, a keen sense of the dramatic, and a knack of turning out a happy ending just when the complications of the plot threaten worse disasters.

Oppenheim has written close upon fifty novels, several plays and a number of short pieces for the stage and the magazines. He was 18 years old when his first story was published. Now past 50, he is said to commence a new tale with the same thrill of enthusiasm that he had at 20.

His system of keeping fit is to divide his waking time about equally between work and sports. Of the latter, he gives attention to shooting, golf and the usual country recreations. His latest story to reach this country is a tale of political life entitled "Nobody's Man," in which a love affair nearly wrecks the hero, but he emerges smiling and triumphant in the usual Oppenheim way.

In "The Critic and the Drama," just published George Jean Nathan leaves temporarily his discussions in book form of current theatrical enterprises and formulates for the first time his entire dramatic credo. "The Critic and the Drama" is a consideration of the various theories and standards of criticism with special reference to the function of the criticism of the drama, together with an appraisal of drama and acting arts, and a survey of dramatic criticism in the United States.

There has come to the book reviewer of the Pine Cone, a paper bound booklet of poems entitled, "Mavericks." After the reviewer had read a verse or two he turned to the title page and learned that the author was William A. Brewer, Jr. "Mavericks" is a round-up of poems he has written from time to time. They are all good and stamp this "son of minister" with the true brand of the singer of words. Here is a little gem:—

Armed with a glance—
For a lance—
Girt with a word—
For a sword—
With the shade of an elm
For a helm—
I go forth.

Bearing a tear
For a spear—
Two yellow leaves
For my breeches—
And the sustained field
For my shield—
I go forth.

A life of Danton, famous leader of the French Revolution, translated from the French of Louis Madelin, has just been brought out. It begins with Danton's turbulent childhood—the child hideous, scarred with small pox, furious and utterly untamable. And those early chapters reveal the man's life in miniature. He was like the bull that gored him in his childhood—some of the spirit of the beast must have entered into him—he stamped and butted his way through life. He was an instrument of the "people's rage," a vein through which ran the nation's fever—he had all the mob attributes: violence and generosity, disorder and sentimentality, venality and fury. It was Robespierre who finally broke him, but even at the end, when Danton stood on the scaffold, he was still the bull at bay. "Show my head to the people, it is worth it!"

Edward J. O'Brien, editor of "The Best Short Stories" of which the latest volume appears in February, is to spend the late winter lecturing in Eastern Canada. Mr. O'Brien has also recently published a volume of verse, "Distant Music."

Former Carmel Resident Dies in the South

Word has just been received of the death from pneumonia on January 20th of Mrs. Minerva Van Horn, who, with Miss Charlotte Brooks, lived here for several years, and left many warm friends behind when they went to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Van Horn was much interested in the Forest Theatre and Miss Brooks was the leader of a local choral society for a season. During their residence here Charles Cadman and his mother visited them, and a musical given in Mr. Cadman's honor, at which he played a number of his own compositions, was given.

All Sorts of Weather— Fairly Good Roads

Carmel has had its share of stormy weather this year. We have had heavy rains, hail, frost, electric storms, hurricanes, and lastly snow on the Santa Lucia range of mountains south of us. But we have suffered less here than in most parts of the state. Hobart P. Glassell, returning here from Oakland last Sunday, reports snow so deep in some places as to stop the progress of his auto.

Herbert Hand and a Pine Cone man motored down the Coast early in the week as far as Idlewild, and found the roads in fairly good condition, considering the recent heavy storms, due principally to the presence of repair gangs during the rain storms.

Historic Stratford-on-Avon.

The history of Stratford-on-Avon may be traced back for a period of 1,100 years, and as the birthplace of Shakespeare is has become a classic center visited annually by some 50,000 people. The Guard house, where Shakespeare was born; Shottery, where he courted Anne Hathaway; Charlotte park, once the seat of Sir Thomas Lucy, whose displeasure Shakespeare incurred by stealing his deer; the Shakespeare Memorial theater, on the banks of the Avon, and Shakespeare's monument, are all places worthy of visiting in the old market town of Stratford-on-Avon.

The Shakespeare hotel, situated in the center of the town and close to the Shakespeare Memorial theater, was erected in the Fourteenth century. A few doors from Shakespeare hotel is the Harvard House, which was the early home of the Harvard family, founders of Harvard university.

Confederate Money.

Old and new issues of Confederate currency are being passed throughout the Baltic states as current American dollars, according to the Red Cross Bulletin of Riga. Many natives have bought these valueless issues from foreigners recently returned from the United States.

Many Russians have come into the American Red Cross offices in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania with stage money, cigar and cigarette coupons which they had bought as American greenbacks.

HOW HE DOES IT

"His wife believes everything he tells her."

"That so? How does he manage it?"

"He makes it a practice not to tell her much."

FOR ANALYSIS.

Sweet Young Thing—Do you believe there are microbes in kisses, doctor?

Doctor—Well, miss, if you will give me one I will give it my personal attention and examine it.

LUCKY.

"It has been my experience that at every public dinner there's always one speaker who bores everybody."

"My! How lucky you've been."

The Year

Pine Needles

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bush of Pasadena are in Carmel, to remain until April.

Fred Graf, prominent realtor of Los Angeles spent last Sunday and Monday in Carmel.

Miss Minnie Marques and William Marshall, both well known here, were married in Salinas recently.

Miss Mary Johnson of Berkeley is a guest of Miss McMillan at her Casanova street home for a few days.

Mrs. Opal Heron was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in the court of Judge J. A. Bardin last Thursday.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton and Madam Ann Dare are now residing in Pasadena, where they have rented an attractive home.

John Navas, who is attending the Seale Military Academy, was down from Palo Alto for the week end to visit his mother.

Hobart Glassell went up to Piedmont for a visit with his wife and daughter. He says they are getting along famously.

One hundred and fifty Carmel voters have placed their names on the Great Register at the Pine Cone office. Is your name written there?

This is the month we celebrate. The 9th is Roosevelt Memorial Day, Lincoln's Birthday is on the 12th, and Washington's Birthday on the 22nd.

Mrs. Jack Logan and Jack Junior are here from the south. They will be Carmelites until the return of Mr. Logan from abroad during the late spring.

Mrs. Rose J. DeYoe departed for her European trip last Friday. She will stop at New Orleans on her way to New York, from whence she sails on the 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lancing of Nevada, who have been sojourning here for the past ten days, have departed for Santa Barbara, where Mrs. Lancing's people live.

The mother and sister of Gordon Davis, who for some time resided in British Columbia, have returned to Palo Alto, where Miss Margaret has a position with the Daily Times.

Various matters connected with the summer affairs of the Forest Theater will be discussed upon the return from the south of Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter, secretary of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Silva are now on their way to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will remain until February 16. On the 18th they sail from New York for France on the steamship Rochambeau.

The pines laid low by the Christmas day hurricane are rapidly disappearing from the landscape. When walking through the forest one frequently comes upon two men and a big saw reducing the fallen trees to stove wood.

The report that Arthur Vachell, artist, is to return to Carmel, cannot be verified, though it would not surprise his friends here to see him bob up at any time—as he has bobbed up before. He has been in England for about two years.

City Marshal Englund and two assistants have completed the job of posting notices calling attention to the purpose of the City Trustees to pave Ocean avenue. Tuesday, Feb. 14th at 7:30 p. m., is the time set to consider protests.

August Englund was called to San Francisco last Saturday by the death of Mrs. Englund's brother, Mr. Allman. The body was brought to Pacific Grove for burial, the funeral taking place on Tuesday, with services conducted by Rev. G. M. Dewart.

Mrs. Myra M. Swett, mother of Portia Swett, has taken the Coleman cottage on Carmelo avenue for a period of two months.

Mrs. Ida Theurer of Oakland made a hurried trip to Carmel this last week-end to look after her property interests here.

Horton Denny's many Carmel friends will be glad to know that he is expecting to take a trip abroad in the near future, with some time to be spent in Brittany, and then on to Paris.

Mrs. John Chase and Mrs. Place of Palo Alto were recent visitors in Carmel. They shortened their stay considerably owing to the stormy weather.

Carmel folks who attended the farewell tea aboard H.M.S. Raleigh included Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Prince and daughter, Major and Mrs. E. Banks Gwyther, Miss Cathleen Johnston, Mrs. William Argo, Captain and Mrs. W. L. Maxwell.

"Cabbages and Kings" is minus its cabbages. Someone basely appropriated the ornaments from in front of Carmel's most attractive business place. Now when a friend invites Glassell to a corn-beef-cabbage repast said friend will fall under suspicion.

Miss Anna Brewer was killed in an automobile accident near Woodland last Friday. The deceased and her sister, Miss Henrietta F. Brewer, spent the Christmas holidays in Carmel. The sisters were traveling together when the accident occurred.

Glenn Leidig celebrated his tenth birthday on Tuesday by providing the entertainment for the Boys Club at Grey Gables. For once the boys had more than they could eat and all voted their thanks to Mrs. Fred Leidig for her generous feast. Mrs. R. W. Hicks and Mrs. H. P. Larouette contributed also to the good things.

Mrs. H. L. Palmer and her mother, Mrs. Muller, have rented the Horsford cottage until June, at which time they hope to be in their own home at Lincoln street and Second avenue. The property extends to Monte Verde street. This is one of several new dwellings projected in the northern section of town.

The Pine Cone extends a most cordial welcome home to Frederick MacMurray and his wife, who are returning to Carmel this week with the intention of remaining here permanently. They have rented the Lutz Hall cottage. Mr. MacMurray is one of the foremost violinists of the country, and we are proud to have him one of us again.

Mrs. Mabel G. Young and Mrs. James Hopper motored to San Francisco last Saturday. The former plans to stay several months with her son Harry. She expects to hear a great deal of the fine music, beginning with the Gluck-Zambalist concert. During her absence her pupils will be under the direction of Miss Grace Wickham.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Swain are spending some time at their cottage on Dolores street near Seventh avenue. Mr. Swain has just returned from Manila, where for some time he was in the automobile business. Mrs. Swain's many friends will remember her as Gyp Schumacher. She has recently been connected with a moving picture concern in Hollywood.

Young Folks' Dansant at the Wallace Home

Moir Wallace was hostess at a party and dance at her home on Saturday, January 27.

Games and refreshments pleasantly supplemented an evening of dancing. The young hostess sketched a ravishing Cinderella upon which the budding Lotharios worked ambitiously to pin the glass slipper.

There were present: Carol Thudichum, Florence Edler, Vivian Edler, Virginia Burton, Christine Burton, Vere Basham, Anne Clute, Anne Greene, Ross Burton, Fletcher Dutton, Jack Jordan, Waldo Hicks, James Hopper, Richard Boke, John Bartlett, Gordon Campbell, Billy Heron.

Moving Picture Writer

Now Visiting Here

M. Genevieve Daniel is visiting her sister, Miss Edith Chilver, and expects to remain here indefinitely. She has just started collaborating with Calvin Johnson in the picturization of one of his Saturday Evening Post stories, and she expects to work on it while here. Mrs. Daniel has been on the staff of William De Mille, but at present is free-lancing. She has collaborated with other picture writers and has done meritorious work, including "Humdrum Brown," starring Henry B. Walthall; "Thirty Thousand Dollars," starring Warren Kerrigan; "Honors Crossed," a Goldwyn picture, "Frankly Chaste," starring Olive Thomas, and "The Thing We Love," by the Famous Players with Wallace Reid.
